

Consultation Clinics

Psychology Partnerships
Community Interest Company
Inclusive, not exclusive

For six months from September 2009, Psychology Partnerships CIC is offering free consultation clinics around Co. Durham on a weekly basis.

These are aimed at giving providers, whether carers or support staff, the opportunity to consult with an experienced psychologist about service users with complex needs such as:

- challenging behaviour
- forensic issues
- sexually inappropriate behaviour

A written summary of the issues discussed will be completed at the time of the consultation.

The clinics will be held around Co. Durham at different venues - appointments can be booked in advance. If your organisation has more than one service user to be discussed, it may be possible to hold a clinic at your premises by prior arrangement.

Dr Paul Smith, consultant clinical psychologist or Heidi Fisher, consultant forensic psychologist will be available at the clinics.

Contact us for more information.

Details of exact dates and venues will also be posted on the Psychology Partnerships website at www.psychologypartnerships.co.uk

These consultation clinics may also be accessed by social care and health staff providers as appropriate.
